Features & Benefits

HPC KAESER SIGMA Profile

Every HPC rotary screw air end is equipped with energy saving SIGMA PROFILE rotors. Components manufactured to the highest standards and precision aligned roller-bearings ensure long service life with maximum reliability.

Automatic belt tensioning

An automatic belt tensioning device ensures consistent transmission efficiency and excellent drive-system reliability.

(Not required for SX Series)

Cooling air filter mats

Ambient air used for cooling is contaminated to some degree, but the filter mats through which the air is drawn into the cabinet prevent the cooler from clogging.

Optimised separation system

The combination of optimum flow separation and a special separator cartridge results in a minimal fluid content of less than 2 mg/m³ in the discharged compressed air.

(SX series models feature an external separator cartridge)

Maintenance friendly

The left housing cover is easily removed to allow excellent component accessibility. Fluid levels or drive belt tension can also be checked via a convenient inspection window.
